A review of the services has been undertaken, with the aim to identify ways to remodel services so that it is more in line with best practice and ensures that emergency accommodation services can meet current and future needs. This work is not linked to any efficiency target or driven by financial savings. The purpose of the review is to ensure that models that are commissioned offer optimised services and respond to the needs of those people who require such services.

There has been various engagement works carried out. The feedback has been positive in relation to the proposed model. Research has been undertaken across UK in good practice. The report outlines an identified need to diversify the type of accommodation that is funded.
